

Letter of Recommendation

Dear Sir or Madam

As the Data analysis manager of Alibaba Group, I am pleased to recommend Yi Yao, an excellent intern from 20 April to 15 June, 2026 in our company. As a strongly motivated young man, Yi Yao boasts for a deep sense of purpose and strong working competence. These qualifications make him an ideal candidate for the program he will apply for. I am confident that he has aptitude and capacity to do research in this field.

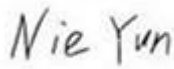

Yao demonstrated professional skills in data collection and analytic. He assists in processing the data of the operation department, and completes the business objectives of data extraction, analysis, modeling and output report. He can skillfully use SQL to extract data, support daily data template update, analyze outliers and find problems, and demonstrate strong professional ability; In addition, he also cooperates with business departments to provide daily data support, prepare analysis reports for specific problems, and provide data support for operational decisions and product direction. He finished the task with high quality.

Moreover, Yao was highly motivated and proved to be a fast learner in the working environment with his strong data analysis background and thirst for knowledge. When he encountered problems, Yao would consult me and then push forward his work in no time, rather than handing in unsatisfactory results.

Overall, Yao embodied a perfect mix of the attributes in extraordinary data analytic, problem solving, and teamwork spirits. He has been an asset to my project, and I believe that he will continue to make more achievements in the future endeavors. If there is any further information needed regarding him, please let me know at your earliest convenience.

Best Regards,
